FINE DINING CHINESE / NEW DELHI

Our philosophy of cooking 'Chinese cuisine from the heart'

Creating haute, Chinese cuisine through a repertoire of innovation while respecting unique traditions, plated with warmth.

Chi Ni 吃 (v.): To Eat

#FOODBYROSEATE

Perched atop a manicured hill, overlooking the enchanting stained glass boat by Khun Lek Bunnag, Chi Ni at The Roseate New Delhi is a connoisseur's paradise in a magical landscape setting. Inspired by the liberated art of cooking at Kai Mayfair, it brings the same individuality and eccentricity that the brand represents.

Dr. Ankur Bhatia, Founder, Roseate Hotels & Resorts and Bernard Yeoh, Proprietor - Kai Mayfair had created this iconic concept in the year 2015, a beautiful orchestration of craft, innovation and time honoured techniques. The restaurant design, emanating from the drawing board of acclaimed designer, Bob Puccini blended with various exciting inputs to create a first of its kind fine dining restaurant under a tent canopy in the country. The iconic artwork by Park Seung Mo titled 'Illusion' adorns the walls, complemented with Shanghai Tang plaid covers.

The menu features exquisite modern Chinese, Szechuan cold-hot, Hong Kong Cantonese, Malaysian local food and Singapore Chinese.

Besides an exquisite setting, unparalleled service and an exceptional gastronomical experience, the 140 cover restaurant offers a bespoke indoor and al fresco space, has intimate private dining spaces, a winery and a bar seating.

Welcome to Chi Ni – Chinese cuisine from the heart

DESSERTS

We present to you what the heart wants, when the heart wants – right at the beginning. Taking away the feeling of ‘after’ that desserts are popularly known for, we challenge you to change your meal plan and savour the experience of doing something different and deliciously indulging.

- WHISK(E)Y

SINGLE MALTS

Scotland plays host to over one hundred whisky distilleries, the single greatest concentration in the world. Most of them produce malt whisky, using only malted barley and traditional pot stills. The term 'Single Malt' means whisky that is produced by a single distillery. Single malt whiskies tend to reflect the climate and geographical characteristics of the region they come from. There are four main regions, namely the Highland, Lowland, Islay and Speyside.

ISLAY

The Island of Islay (pronounced Eye-la') is the south of the Western Isles and lies on the eastern side of Kintyre.

It is flat, green and very largely composed of peat-the water on the island is brown with it. Winter gales drive salt spray far inland and this saturates the peat, which is dried again by the briny, seaweedy breeze and these characteristics give way to flavour its malt.

SPEYSIDE

The Speyside area is situated at the north of the Cairngorm mountain and goes to the Moray Firth. Two rivers delimit it namely the Findhorn at the west side and the Deveron on the east side. The area is named after the river Spey. Most of the distilleries take their water in one of its affluent; the Fiddich, the Livet or the Avon. Speyside whiskies are essentially sweet. They have a little peaty character and have a whiff of smoke and their salient characteristic is estery. They take maturation in sherry-wood well and can be rich and full bodied, medium and light-bodied.

HIGHLAND

This is the mountainous part of Scotland where streams tumbling over granite, heather hills and green glens introduced interesting flavours and aromas to the malt whiskies. Whisky produced here uses water that has flowed over peat bogs, which impart a smoky flavour.

LOWLAND

Lowland whiskies generally have a dry finish, which makes them excellent aperitifs. The dryness comes from the malt itself, not from peat as Lowlands tend to use unpeated malt, this also lends a certain sweet fruitiness to the flavour and mouthfeel. Their aromatic intensity is low and tends to be grassy or herbal, with grainy and floral notes.

INDIA

India and Scotland are very different in climate. Indeed, single malt in India matures much faster, and it is for this reason that we see no age statements, most expressions are only a few years old. As with all single malt whiskies, Indian single malt must be matured for a minimum of three years and a day in oak casks, and it is the produce of a single distillery, distilled from nothing other than water, yeast and malted barley. Indian single malt whiskies are known for their fruity, malty character.
