Roseate House London, a luxury boutique hotel overlooking the verdant Westbourne Terrace, spreads across three mid-19th century, Grade-II townhouses built in 1842, restored to the original allure and charm of their Victorian architecture. The opulent hotel offers a stunning view of the street once described as the 'finest in London' facing St James Church, where Oscar Wilde espoused. Roseate House London has 47 luxurious rooms and suites that feature classic Victorian furniture and original oil paintings from the era, personally handpicked and curated by Jonty Hearnden, antiques expert, appraiser and presenter of BBC's Antiques Roadshow and Cash in the Attic. Guests can promenade their way to some of the landmarks of London such as the iconic Hyde Park, Kensington Palace, The Royal Albert Hall, Oxford Street, Park Lane, High Street Kensington and Portobello Road or take a short walk to Paddington station that offers access to the entire city and the Heathrow Express to the Heathrow Airport.

AFTERNOON TEA

Roseate House London elevates the most characteristic of British dining traditions with the Afternoon Tea at The Hyde. From signature English Breakfast tea produced by the last independent family run tea garden in the mountains of Malawi, to hand-crafted Dragon Well Long Jing green tea, pressed into the shape of a feather, sourced directly from the famed terroir of Hangzhou, Zhejiang Province, China. The Afternoon Tea at The Hyde does not attenuate with just scones and cream, it can begin with a glass of sparkling Moët & Chandon champagne or a cocktail from the bar's award-winning mixologist. The invigorating aromatic brew is further complemented by a selection of fine sandwiches served on grand silver cake stands with homemade scones alongside our signature Cornish clotted cream, homemade strawberry jam and The Hyde's lemon curd, which is a house speciality. In our endeavour to create exceptional experiences for our guests, we organise a variety of whiskey club tastings, wine & cheese pairing sessions and wine & dine dinners at The Hyde throughout the year.
